Administrative News

Dear Parents and Community Members:

The tough economic times that seem to continually effect all of our North Country schools has hit hard again when planning budgets for next year. All schools are facing gaps in their budgets forcing superintendents to make tough but necessary decisions to ensure these schools remain solvent both academically and financially. Some of these factors negatively affecting school budgets include but are not limited to things like the Gap Elimination Adjustment and the way the State's foundation aid formula works. Because of these downwardly adjusted state aid decisions almost all North Country school districts have had to make painful sacrifices in their educational programs. These stop-gap measures; however, are not sustainable as all of us are seeing our fund reserves dwindle quickly with some districts having burned through all their reserve funds. Harrisville will eventually become another statistic of schools that become either academically or financially insolvent unless some drastic changes are made to school funding.

Over the next month and half we will be discussing the budget for the 2014-2015 school year at our Board of Education meetings, as well as, a couple of community budget discussions. I will also reach out to several larger community organizations to attend their meetings to discuss the budget. We will post the dates of the budget discussions on our webpage and uptown at different businesses.

Lastly, I want to thank the community for the endless support of the school and the programs we provide.

Cordially,

Rob Finster
Superintendent of Schools
